

Ranges on the Sound Spectrum

When multiple instruments play the exact same note, the sound can get 'muddy' and the individual sound of each instrument is lost. If you arrange music, you should know the range of the instruments so you don't have all the instruments playing in the same range. This chart also shows vocal ranges at the top, so you can have reasonable expectations when preparing parts for your vocalists.

